

Appropriate Shelter for Dogs Left Outdoors

Anyone with custody of a dog left outdoors must provide the dog with shelter appropriate to its breed, size, age, physical condition, and climate, adequately protecting the dog.

The dog house must have:

- A waterproof insulated roof, appropriate to the climate and weather conditions
- Allow the dog adequate freedom of movement to be able to stand, turn and lie down with limbs outstretched
- A clean sanitary environment free from trash, dirt or waste
- The dog must have clean fresh water and food available

IT'S THE LAW!
